LOT 20 - Dall Sheep Taxidermy Mount with Curled Horns

Description

Professional taxidermy mount of a Dall sheep featuring impressive amber-toned curled horns. This mid-to-late 20th century specimen displays the characteristic white coat and distinctive curved horns typical of this North American mountain species.

The mount exhibits quality craftsmanship with glass eyes, natural horn coloration, and well-preserved facial details. The impressive horn curl represents a mature male specimen, mounted in the traditional shoulder mount style preferred by wildlife collectors.

Condition Notes: Left horn shows minor looseness at base but remains secure with slight movement when handled. Some minimal hair shedding occurs when touched, though no visible bare patches are present on the mount. Overall good vintage condition with expected age-related wear. Refer to the pictures and in person inspection for condition.
